THE RETALIATORY AND RECIPROCI-

Senator Allison Says That All the Semaining Amendments of Importance Will Be Ready To-Day, and He Ropes to Get the Vote on the Final Passage of the Bill This Week. Washington, July 2.-The two most important provisions of the Tariff bill outside the question of rates of duty came up in the Senate today, and were disposed of without protracted arguments. They were what are known as the retailatory and the reciprocity sections of the bill. The first provides for an additional duty en soods from foreign countries on which ex-port bounties are paid, and the second authorizes treatles for reciprocal trade with foreign countries and the reduction of the duties on the goods embraced in the treaties to the extent of 90 per cent. The retaliatory section was agreed to by a vote of 33 to 19, and the reciprocity section by a vote of 30 to 18.

It was suggested by Mr. Allison just before adjournment that a time be fixed for final ac-tion on the bill; but as the Finance Committee still withholds the important provision by which an increased revenue is to be provided, Demoeratic Senators declined to fix any time for a final vote before knowing what that provision

The bill was taken up at half past 11. Mr. Allison, replying to Mr. Teller, said that it would be unwise at this time to undertake to revise the necessary amendments to so important a matter as the collection of the tax on dissilled spirits, and added that it was the belief of the Republican members of the Finance Committee that that subject ought to be taken up immediately on the reassembling of Congress in December, and that the whole question of the tax on distilled spirits and on the rules and regulations for its collection should be gone into then.

The consideration of the Tariff bill was proseeded with. The nickel paragraph (183) was made to read:

Niket ore three cents a pound on the nickel consisted therein; nickel matte four cents a pound on the nickel contained therein; nickel exide, alloy of any kind in which nickel is the component material of chief value, eight cents a pound.

Paragraph 605 (free list) was made to corre-spend with the nickel paragraph. Bection 3, for additional duties on articles on which an export bounty is paid, was then taken

Mr. Gray argued against it as being in viola-tion of the treation with Prussia and Austria-ion of the treation which the state of 1828 with Prussia Hungary. He said that the treaty of 1828 with Prussia could not honorably be evaded. It was not the mere "two red nation" clause, but was specific that no higher or other duty should be imposed usen importations from Prussia to the United usen importations. States to Prussia than that no higher or other duty should be imposed upon importations from Prussia to the United States or from the United States to Prussia than the duty imposed on like articles from any other country. In this case an additional duty of three-tenths cent a pound was to be imposed on German sugar, and that was clearly in violation of the treaty. aty.

to-yeas, 33; nays, 19. Senators Allen, Jones of Nevada, Kyle, McEnery, Mor-nd Stewart voted aye, and Senators Mantle and Teller no.

The reciprocity amendment of which Mr. The respressive amendment of which Mr. Allison gave notice on Wednesday was then effered as an additional section, modified so as to require "the advice and consent of the Senate" to commercial treaties.

Mr. Mills suggested that the President and Benate could not "contract away the revenue of the Government without the consent of the House of Representatives." Mr. Vest took the same grounds.

Mr. Morgan declared himself in favor of the reciprocity provision as an improvement upon a bill which contained "enough to astonish and almost to horrify" him, and which was "an open declaration of war against the commerce of the world.

Mr. Gray of Delaware also favored the reciprocity section as breaking down somewhat the barrier of commercial restriction set up in the bill and letting in a little free trade and free masshine.

The reciprocity provision was agreed to—yeas, 30; naya, 18. Four Democratic Senators, Gray, Harris of Kansas, Heitfield, and Morgan, voted for the amendment, and Senators Stewart and Teller against it.

Mr. Allison expressed a desire to have a time fixed for the final disposition of the bill. He said that all the important amendments which were to be offered would be ready early to-morrow and would be in print on the desks of Senators.

Mr. Lindsay offered an amendment to be added to the reciprocity provision. It authorizes and requests the President to investigate and elicit all the facts as to the restrictions put as the sale of American tobacco in foreign countries and to enter into negotiations for the medification or removal of such restrictions. He explained that it was intended to reach certain regulations in France and Spain by which the importation of American tobacco was absolutely prohibited except on Government account.

Mr. Allison intimated that there would be no objection to the amendment. If the President had not that authority now, he was willing to give it to him. The matter went over till tomorrow, and the Senate at 6:15, after an executive seasion, adjourned.

Washington, July 2.- The board appointed res of vessels on the home station has completed it, and in a few days Admiral Sicard, commanding the squadron, will be informed of its full scope. The time fixed for its execution is the latter part of the month, after the exercises of the naval militia. Three first-class battleships, two second-class, and two armored cruisers, will comprise the squadron, which is to be the first of heavily armored ships ever ope-be the first of heavily armored ships ever operated in evolutions along this coast. The battleships will be the Iowa, Indiana and Massachusetts, the Maine and Texas, and the armored existers the Brooklyn and New York, the former being due to arrive about July 12.

The southern drill ground, lying between the Delaware and Virginia capes, will be the course covered, and it is the purpose now to exercise all the vessels as one squadron rather than divide them for attacking and defensive drills. The absence of cruisers will permit the officers to work their vessels on a plan such as would be elserved by vessels of their type in actual battle. When this programme has been carried out the department will probably order the available cruisers and gunboats, numbering eight or las ships, to go to see and operate as scouts and feet ships to harnss the enemy, the battle fleet being held together to defeat, if possible, the purpose of the lighter ships.

TALK OF A CURRENCY COMMISSION. The President Said to He Considering a Special

Message on the Matter Washington, July 2 .- The President and Secretary Gage have been giving some attention to the advisability of asking authority of Con gress for the appointment of a currency commission. is no intention on the part of the Adminion, however, to secure action in the matter this session.

The report that Mr. McKinley desires a commission to inquire into the currency question is generally based on the desire of the President to show an evidence of good faith in carrying out promises made in his inaugural address, but it is the belief among politicians that nothing definite will come of any proposition to have a formal investigation of currency matters with a view to proposing changes.

ROOSEVELT'S ANTI-RED TAPE ORDER It Boes Away with Circumiocution in the Mat-

Washington, July 2 .- Assistant Secretary Roosevelt's anti-red tape order has been published to the navy in an official circular. It does away with the circumlocution required by the present navy regulations concerning regulartions for supplies for ships in commission. The present regulations require all reconsistions for these supplies to pass through the hands of a number of officials before being granted, and frequently much delay is caused, to the detri-ment of the service. The new order will enable communiting officers to keep their vessels in such a state of efficiency that they will be able to resend to any call made upon them. The order allows commanding officers to make purchases in advance of denormmental approval. in advance of departmental approval.

The appointment of Mr. Tenney to succeed Judge Charles A. Benedict came in the nature of a surprise yesterday to the Republicans in Brooklyn, as his name had not been mentioned for the place. McDonald, the former, it is understood, being backed by the Worth contingent, and the latter by the followers of Theodore B. Willis. Mr. Tenney is 64 years old. SENATOR WELLINGTON ANGRY. ays He's Entitled to Senatorial Prerogatives and Ho's Going to Have 'Em. Washington, July 2.—The Republican Senstor from Maryland (Mr. Wellington), rising to a question of personal privilege this morning, deounced a report in a Washington paper of this orning of proceedings in the Committee on Commerce in connection with his opposition to the confirmation of young Mr. Warner for the Consulate at Leipzig.

He declared the report to be grossly unjust and utterly untrue, and an attempt to injure him with his constituents and to involve him unnecessarily with the President. He did not know how any report could have got out of the executive character and should have been kept secret.

The statement that the Maryland delegation was against him in the matter he asserted to be untrue. The Maryland delegation would stand by him. It was false that the Governor of that State was against him. It was also false that he had criticised the President. He had not done so. He had criticised the President's appointment. He was a free man, a Senator of the United States, and he would reserve to himself that liberty which would permit him to criticise any appointment that ought not to be made.

The Senator went on angrily and with frequent pounding of his desk to deny in detail the various statements in the newspaper reports. rious statements in the newspaper reports. ended with these words: 'I have a right to have impartial justice. POOR TOY DEALER'S HOARD on Had Been Dreadfully Bad in the Howery, as Me Would Have Teld You Any Day These Twenty Years—But Me Left His Mother Money to Live On, to Her Surprise. For nearly twenty years Frank Coghill kept a little shop at 42 Bowery. It was a dirty, stuffy place, filled with a confusion of all manner of toys, to which was added, on occasion, a stock of fireworks. Coghill did a jobbing business The first floor of the building was his salesroom, the second his storeroom and on the third he lived with his aged mother and his clerk, a oman named Cohen. The toy merchant had not occupied a large place in the world, and so when he died, on June 18, of heart disease, few persons knew it, or cared.

Cogbill was a Scotchman by birth. Early in als young manhood he married a Scotch girl, ho lived a few years and died childless. Then all that was left to the man war his old mother now nearly eighty: an aunt in Philadelphia, and some cousins of his own name in Jersey City. When he first opened the shop he did business on a small scale, but never as a retailer. When asked one day why he preferred to be a jobber.

"It's just as easy to sell $10 worth of goods as larger quantity is usually the better able to pay After a time he increased his stock, engaged Miss Cohen as a clerk, and went about the city soliciting orders. When anybody asked how usiness was his invariable reply would be: "Business! There is no business. I'm getting corer every day. If I could get rid of the store and my goods I could make more money sweep-ing the streets." ing the streets."

It was noticed, however, that whenever he re-plenished his stock, no matter to what extent, he always had the cash to pay for his purchases. But even his mother thought he was just man-he always had the cash to pay for his purchases. But even his mother thought he was just managing to live.

He never was known to take a vacation, or indeed to leave the city. He worked early and late on week dara, and, so the story goes, he spent his Sundays in taking an inventory of his stock. For over a year his health had been failing. His heart seemed to be affected, and he had promised his mother to take a two months vacation this summer, although when he made the promise he said he didn't know where the money was coming from to pay his expenses. Three weeks ago Wednesday, just after he got up in the morning, the old pains in his heart came back. He was standing near his bed partily dressed. Suddenly he gave a cry which brought Miss Cohen to the room. Cogfoil was tottering when the woman reached the door. As he fell backward Miss Cohen caught him in her arms. He died a few moments afterward.

After the funeral a search was made of his effects to see what there was to go on with. An old black satched was found under the bed. It her arms. He died a few moments afterward.

After the funeral a search was made of his effects to see what there was to go on with. An old black satchel was found under the bed. It was so heavy his mother could hardly lift it, and she called Miss Cohen. The two women opened the valise. It was nearly full of packages about the length of a bank note. There were others which, in size and shape, resembled the large frecrackers Coghill had sold so long.

The women opened one of the larger packages. It contained greenbacks, with a $10 bill on top. They counted the bills and found nearly $200 in the package. The bills were mostly fives and tens with a few ones. They opened one of the smaller packages and found that it contained silver coin. The women concluded that the valise was filled with greenbacks and coin, and took it downstairs and locked it in the safe that night. The next day Mrs. Coghill consulted a lawyer and then took out letters of administration. The valise and its contents were taken down to the United States Trust Company, where the money was counted and deposited. It was found that the accumulations of the toy merchant amounted to $9.954.50.

Some of the bills were nearly fifty years old. Some were badly torn and most were mildewed. They were done up chiefly in packages of $500 each. Most of the bills were fives and tens, but there were a few fifties and hundreds. There was $180 in gold and a quantity of silver. A few of the bills were of the old State bank is sues. Two or three of the gold pieces were worn smooth. What else may be discovered among the effects of this poor man who couldn't make a living out of his business is a matter of present speculation on the part of his mother and the few relatives who may come into the estate

the "Cits." It is as follows:

DEAR SIR:—Kindly crase my name from the roll of the Citizens' Union. I find myself unable to follow the workings of the Union or to ascertain what it may reasonably be expected to accomplish. My chief objection to the course that has been so far pursued by the Executive Committee is that it is proving neither representative nor homogeneous, and that one is kept constantly explaining which particular exponent of the Union correctly shadows forth his personal views, which is at times decidedly embarrassing. I sympathize as fully with the professed purposes of the Union as I did when enrolling, but feel constrained to differ from those controlling the movement as to the wisdom or probable efficiency of the methods used to accomplish the end in view. Very respectfully.

The Sheriff drove the wagon to Dr. Hart's office, and the doctor found that Peter Clark was alive, but had ashed wound in his needs and a bellet in but had a shot would in his neck and a benet in his spine. A LETTER TO WOMEN.

A few words from Mrs. Smith of Philadelphia will certainly corroborate the claim that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is woman's ever reliable friend.

"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly.

"For nine weeks was in bed suffering with inand congestion of the ovaries. . I had a discharge all the time. When lying down all the time, I felt quite comfortable; but as soon as I would put my feet on the floor the pains would come back. "Every one thought it was impossible for me to get well. I was paying $1 per day for doctor's visits and 75 cents a day for medicine. I made up my mind to try Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has effected a complete cure for me, and I have all the faith in the world in it. What a blessing to woman it is!" MRS. JEN-NIE L. SMITH, No. 324 Kauffman St., Philadelphia, Pa.

CORPORATIONS MUST PAY UP. They Neglected to File Statements of Their Capital with the Assessors.

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., July 2.-Between fifty and seventy-five incorporated companies doing business in this city have neglected to file a statement with the assessors giving the quantity and value of their real and personal property. This morning the time in which that statement could be filed, expired, and the names of the negligent corporations will be handed to District Attorney Honkins for prosecution. The law explicitly states that a corporation failing to give to the assessors an iter ized statement of the amount of its capital stock, together with the real estate and other property owned by it, shall be guilty of a mismeanor, the punishment for which shall be a fine of $250 for the first offence.

Only two corporations in the city sent in the Only two corporations in the city sent in the required statement on time. These were the Lumber Exchange and the State Hank. When the other corporations were asked to do so they were all either too busy or did not care to have the Board of Assessors know the value of their property. In this they made a big mistake, for by letting the assessors guess the value of their possessions they were assessed nearly double the amount they would have been assessed if they had compiled with the law.

The Tonawanda Iron and Steel Company falled to hand in a report to the assessors and that company was assessed on $250,000 worth of property. The assessment two years ago was only $50,000. The Tonawanda Power and Light Company would have escaped with a ify $50,000. The tonawanua rows in hight Company would have escaped with a 10,000 assessment if it had not treated the re-

$10,000 assessment if it had not treated the request for a statement as a huge joke. As it is, that corporation will now pay taxes on $40,000 worth of property. The New York Central failed to comply with the demands of the assessor, and the Central's assessment was increased $100,000 over last year's.

That is not all. The amount of money that will be collected in fines from these tardy corporations will amount in all to about $15,000. The assessment of every wealthy man in the city has been nearly doubled over what it was last year, the taxes of the poor men being proportionately reduced.

GEORGIA LAWYERS ON LYNCHING

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., July 2.—The recent outreaks of mob violence in the South and the onditions which have led to lynchings since the civil war have caused many private and public discussions during the present session of the Georgia Bar Association. The question how cope with the matter led the Executive Committee of the Bar Association to introduce the matter formally before the convention in a discussion on "Is lynch law due to defects in our riminal law or its administration I" said in the debate:

Many addresses were made. Burton Smith.

stop lynching if the crime continues. It is very well for us to discuss this matter calmly in our ately, but when these crimes occur the men who know the virtin and her family forget reason and are carried away by passion. It is a crime which turns the coward's heart to steel, the sluggard's heood to flame.

"Probably every one in the sound of my voice joins me in condemning lynching, but many of them would forget objections when the victim was a neighbor or an acquantance, and would join in the punishment of the brute without a thought of the consequences. The Anglo-Saxon race has always protected its women without the aid of law courts, and as long as Anglo-Saxon blood flows in American veins, whether in Goorgia, Alabama, Massachusetts, or Ohio, rapists will sometimes find a short, swift, and ready rope. In Ohio the people think rape so mild an offence that the statute makes its punishment imprisonment for twenty years. But even in Ohio a negro assaulted a white woman, and the people hung him, although it was necessary to drive away a troop of soldiers. No law can preventlynching as long as the crime continues."
